The Omaha's quaffed their bitterest draught of the season in the game with Hunky Hines' Prohibitionists Wednesday afternoon. It was a shut-out, the first of the season, and even though the game was protested, the bitterness of defeat rankled Orth Puts Another Cont of Whitewash in the breasts of every rooter who witnessed the contest. The visitors succeeded in piling up six runs. Only one of them was earned, but that one alone would have been enough, for the locals were unable to land on Freddie Glade at critical times and not once did a man in gray uniform run around the bags.

Umpire Grim refused to let the game proceed with McVicker in his accustomed place in the field, even though his instructions from President Hickey were clearly wrong, owing to the fine having been sent to him at his office in St. Joe.

That he did not receive it because of absence from St. Joe was clearly not the fault of the Omaha management. Finally Freeland, who is still nursing a broken finger received at Pueblo, was sent out in the field and the game proceeded, under protest from Manager Rourke, however.

Well, there isn't much to tell about the game. Glade and Hughes, the two best pitchers in the league, were opposed to each other and between them they gave but ten bits, six of these being made off long Tammas, the Omahan. By a combination of unfortunate errors on the part of the locals the six runs scored by the visitors were made possible. The Pro-hibitionists, on the other hand, played a game devoid of mishap, except in one in-stance, and Glade's superb pitching was backed up by a field that was the finest of the fine. The score:

Miss M. Curtis of Boston had no dif

Charles Potter, the lad who made such a good showing the first night of the amateur six-day race, which is on at the new Midway evele track this week, was compelled to withdraw from the context during the first hour's riding last night. It was no fault of the boy's that he had to retire, for after taking a tumble at the west turn, during which he suffered a twisted knee and other severe bruises, he was helped onto his wheel and struggled gamely for another half hour before he would give up. During this time he won the special prize offered for the evening, as well as taking a lap on the entire field of older and more experienced riders. His bruises, however, proved so painful that at the end of the affty-sighth mile he had to leave the track and quit the race, much to the disappointment of the specialors.

There were at least 1.500 people in the stands last night and the riding was swift and exciting from start to full-h W. H. Stevenson, the one-armed wonder, was the hero after young Potter left the trace. During the last half hour of last evening at the final sprint for the evening Stevenson crossed the tape first, Bennett accound and Shuitz third.

Last evening the special event, which was announced to be a motorcycle exhibition, was declared off, owing to the fast that the big machine went wrong at the last minute. The specialors were all given return checks on account of the failure in the motor to work and tonight they will have an opportunity to witness a five-mile motorcycle race between the New Haven (Conn.) team and the local flyers, besides the regular six-day race.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—John I. Sullivan was given a rousing benefit in Madison-square garden tonight. The sum realized from the sale of tlekets and subscriptions will be a large one. It will be held in trust by a committee which will invest the money and pay the interest to Sullivan. Bob Fitzsimmous met with an enthusiastic reception when he took a seat in a box at the ringside. Jeffries came in a little later, but there was only a mild demonstration as he made his way to the dressing room. There were three events for a decision in addition to the exhibition bouts on the long program. The match was witnessed by a large and enthusiastic gallery of society people who are deeply interested in the championship.

A good sized gallery also followed the match between Miss Beatrice Hoyt and Miss C. H. Parrish, but it was so one-sided that all interest was lost when it was seen that Miss Hoyt was bound to win with ease, so her followers went off to look at other matches, which were being closely competed.
